

Dan Poynter presents

WRITEAHOLISM

Just say NO to keyboards

Dan Poynter presents a humorous "stand-up" production that rings true to authors, publishers and other book people.

He confesses his addiction to writing (many of us write books because we have to, not because we want to.) He tells of his 12-step experience. (Every step turned into a chapter and he wound up with another darn book.) He pleads with his audience to break the cycle of keyboard abuse.

He continues on to reveal some of the innermost secrets of the book industry.

Dan singles out audience members for some of his comments; he works co-dependents (those who do not write but are being driven crazy by an author) and recovering writers (those who are tempted but have stayed away from keyboards for a while) into the presentation. Some of his commentary could even be true.

Audiences love this program as they identify with the addiction to writing that Dan describes. Laughter brings tears to their eyes.

Dan Poynter is an author of more than 120 books, has been a publisher since 1969 and is a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP). His seminars have been featured on CNN, his books have been pictured in The Wall Street Journal and his story has been told in US News & World Report. The media come to Dan because he is the leading authority on book publishing. His mission is to see that people do not die with a book still inside them.

This program is best presented as a keynote or following a meal.

P-30, Keynote, 30 minutes.
